

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Talks of Parties Breaking Up Early. She Speaks of Numerous Comings and Goings to Europe This Spring—Other Bits of News

I KNEW if we had more snow I would start getting kitchener again, and slide down the street in a manner unbecoming of my years. But, believe me, I was thoroughly and fully upheld in my behavior by a certain gentleman I saw who was out in the snow with his small son on De Lancey place...

THE Harrison dance for August at the Ritz was great fun, I thought. You know, there were just about 125 men and girls there, and it was one of those affairs where every one was asked to come half after 9 o'clock, and at half after 10 the orchestra played "Good Night, Ladies," and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison said "Good night," and everybody meant it. And every one was at home and in bed by 2 o'clock or perhaps a little after. And every one had a perfectly splendid time, too!

MR. HARRISON and Augusta are going to Europe next month and will join Ellen, Augusta's younger sister, who is at school in Paris. They expect to come back to America in May and Ellen is to make her debut next winter.

It will be strange when there is a winter without a Harrison. It is to be expected, however, that the couple will continue to be in the city for several seasons, and in a year or two more there will be the Edwards, Eather and then the DeWitts. Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Rowland, whose aunt, Mrs. Walter Wood, will introduce them. She is their guardian, you know.

I HEAR the Hepburn girls will be coming home in March. All three of them have been in Europe for nearly a year. They sailed in the late spring or early summer with their mother, Mrs. William W. Hepburn, and she came with a chaperone while Mrs. Hepburn came back to this country for a month or two. Mrs. Hepburn went back again about three weeks ago, and they are at present traveling in Switzerland, going later to Holland, then to England, and will sail home on the Olympic March 1.

THE Charlton Yarnalls will sail next month, you know. They are taking Agnes from school in the South, where she has been most of the winter, and Alberta Heath will go with them, too. Alberta has really had one of the best years of her life. I should say, and she has enjoyed it so. She is perfectly unspooled by all the parties and the flowers and the attentions, and is too attractive for words with her pretty, half-shy manner and soft brown eyes. She was so darling in the "Marriage Tax" last week of the "Ladies from Paris," most of whom were married over their heads with diamonds. She was thirteen or fourteen of her own, and Alberta looked so girlish and "debutantish" among them and blushed so when Tommy Hart insisted on kissing her. She is a dear girl!

I HEAR Tibby Taylor has gone to Europe, too. She and her mother, Mrs. Roland Taylor, decided to go rather quickly, and they were off before I knew it. Tibby's name is really Elizabeth Anne. She is a sister of Margery Taylor Harwick, who is living in Chestnut Hill and has that darling baby. The Taylors have a wonderful place near Penlyn and the young people will certainly miss Tibby on Sunday afternoons, for her home was a great place for the gathering of the clans. Often there would be sixteen to eighteen of the younger set over there playing baseball.

FREDDY started at an early age to admire glossy pompadours. In fact, he labored long and heavily to keep his unruly locks in place. He even spent with a small skull cap over his hair when mother was not looking. But the climax was reached one day when the whole family assembled at luncheon. Suddenly mother sniffed the air carefully and said: "Some one has just polished his or her shoes; the odor of fresh polish is perfectly awful." And she looked at the maid's shoes when she came into the room again. No; Mar's shoes, while neat, were not newly polished. The luncheon advanced, but mother was not satisfied. "My goodness," she said, "that shoe polish is awful!" Then, turning to Freddy, whose face was red and gaily, she added, "Freddy, if you've polished your shoes, you'll have to take them off and finish your lunch in slippers." Freddy's face grew so red it seemed as if it were about to burst, and with a rush of tears he exclaimed: "I can't take it off; it's in my hair. I was just polishin' my hair to make it shiny!" NANCY WYNNE.
